RC SCALE AEROBATICS

Wednesday began slow. With some rain and ceiling issues, the flying was delayed. But many people took the opportunity to look at their Unknowns and just visit with each other.

We also had one diligent contestant who managed to use the time to remove his broken motor and mount a new motor on his plane. He did not even miss a flight!

Even with the delay (and even a couple of false starts), the pace ramped up quickly as the competition started again. Five rounds were flown with plenty of great flying and some great drama.

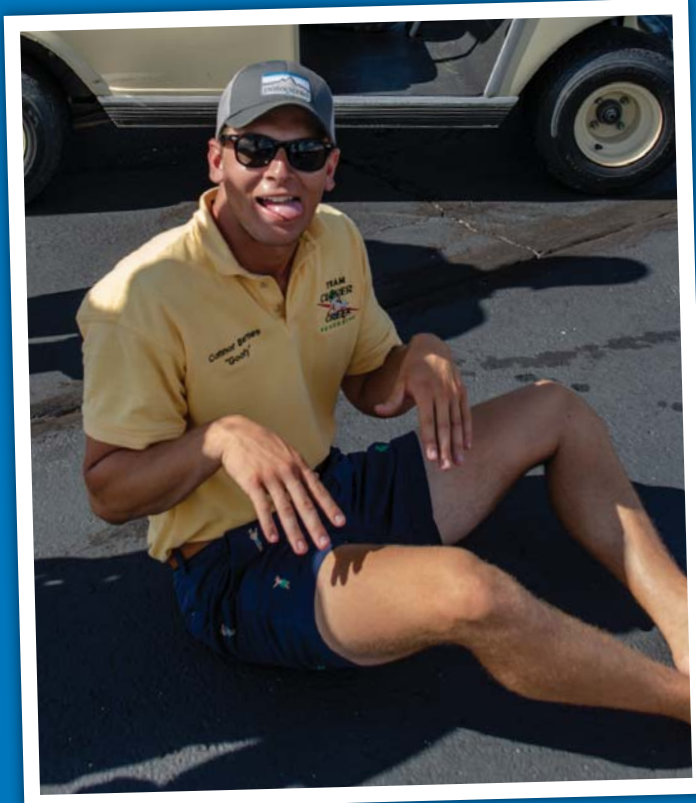

We saw a flight between David Moser and Kurt Koelling that looked like it was synchronized. They both flew their sequences together. It was thrilling for the watchers!

In the end, everyone went to his or her hotels or campers tired and ready to rest up for Thursday's action. The next couple of days are predicted to be sunny and nice. So, everyone is expecting to do a lot of flying ... and judging ... and scribing ... and flying and judging ... and scribing. 🛩️
